

Featured Vendors

Bruster's Real Ice Cream: Lavender in freshly-made ice cream and in waffle cones and dishes – only at the Pennsylvania Lavender Festival! www.Brusters.com;
creamcuisineinc@embarqmail.com

Expressions—Michael Chapman: Michael describes his work as “creative photography,” and it most definitely is. His photos of the Festival in years past have perfectly caught the essence of the event. Michael is unable to attend the 2010 Festival, but a selection of his work will be available in the Lavender Tent. M_Chapman@comcast.net

Peggy-Ann Kessler Duke: Peggy-Ann Kessler Duke is a professional botanical illustrator specializing in pen and ink and hand-colored prints. Published examples of her work may be seen in the Manual of the Vascular Flora of the Carolinas (1968), Threatened and Endangered Plants of Nevada (1980), Living Liqueurs (1987), and the CRC Handbook of Edible Weeds (1992). Peggy also has illustrated botanical text books, scientific articles, and dissertations. In addition to botanical illustration, Peggy is a very accomplished sumi-e (Chinese brush painting) artist.

Florals by Linda—Linda Guise: Dried floral and herb arrangements. We are happy to say that Linda does all of the dried arrangements for Willow Pond Farm.

Handcrafted Jewelry by Julia Dixon—Julia Dixon: Unique, one-of-a-kind jewelry perfect for any occasion. Julia has been at the Festival since the beginning. Her hand-crafted jewelry has always been a hit. juliadixonabc@aol.com

Hobbit House—Jack Handshaw: One of the increasing numbers of superb Fairfield artists, Jack turns clay into superb reduction fired porcelain. jghobbit@comcast.net

Hope Springs Baskets—Ned Baxter: Split woven baskets and turned wooden bowls. An accomplished basket maker, Ned will be focusing this year on “gathering” baskets, the perfect basket for those whose mission it is to harvest lavender! hopesprings@peoplepc.com

Jean Designs—Jean Huffenus and Leslie Manas: Fragrant, lavender-filled lockets and lavender-motif jewelry, all finely crafted. www.lavenderjewelry.com; info@jeandesigns.com

La Cigale—John Mitchell: Featuring French table linens from southern France. We went to France several years ago to see the lavender growing in Provence and bought several Provencal table linens. Imagine our surprise when we discovered on our return that we could have saved the airfare and purchase them from John! www.lacigale-usa.com; info@lacigale-usa.com

Lavender Fiber Art—Elaine Dvorak: Growing up in a family of knitters, Elaine discovered that natural fibers did more than just make sweaters! Elaine creates and designs one-of-a-kind pieces, including felted pillows, bags, and bottle covers, along with hand-woven wraps and scarves. Elaineuk@embarqmail.com

Massage Therapy—Amanda Morris: All that lavender and a massage therapist! What more could you ask for a relaxing day? arm9580@yahoo.com

Pine Hollow Primitives—Frank & Laurie Bosi: Hand-cast sandstone and concrete garden features, including the signature “English Puddler,” butterfly attracter stones that create a place where butterflies and birds gather in the garden to frolic in the flowers. www.pinehollowprimitives.com; LB@pinehollowprimitives.com

ReCreations by Deborah Florian: Wire-wrapped suction window vases, hanging bud vases, rooting vases and inspiration vases. Also featuring vase pins. recreationsbydeb@msn.com

Stony Ridge Forge—Michael O’Herron: Hand-forged garden art, flowers and flower arrangements, door pulls and hinges, candle holders and plant hooks. srforge@embarqmail.com

The Rosemary House—Susanna Reppert-Brill: Classic herb and gardening books, the best-selling “Roastmary” herb blend, fairy garden items, and lavender products. TheRosemaryHouse@aol.com

Zoë’s Chocolates—Zoë Tsoukatos: Fine artisan chocolates prepared with today’s flavors and high-quality ingredients (like fresh cream, genuine Italian butter, imported chocolate). www.zoeschocolate.com; zoe@zoeschocolate.com